About the Artist:

LAPIZ is living in Hamburg (Germany), but taught himself to paint on the streets of Dunedin (New Zealand). In South Africa he worked on HIV and the shocking social contrasts were processed via public interventions. While living in Buenos Aires (Argentina) he started painting huge technical stencils.

Off the public space he creates original works and limited-edition screen prints.

Independent of scale, his colorful and intelligent works address the social challenges of our time, current political events and topics that have been ignored. Through his work he creates spaces that invite self-reflection and encourage discussion and exchange of ideas. He strongly believes that through this dialogue positive change is possible.
